

Princess Chulabhorn Science High School Satun and Furukawa Reimei High School's teachers and students visited IRIDeS (2018/8/31)

Theme : Earthquake, Tsunami, Disaster Risk Reduction
Location: Sendai, Japan

On 31 August 2018, 6 Thai students and 4 teachers from Princess Chulabhorn Science High School, Satun, Thailand, and 2 Japanese teachers from Furukawa Reimei Junior and Senior High School visited the International Research Institute of Disaster Science (IRIDeS). This is the fourth time of their visit. Assoc. Prof. Anawat Suppasri explained them about IRIDeS's activities on interdisciplinary research as well as gave a lecture on "Introduction to Natural Disasters and their mitigation". The students and teachers learned about the natural disasters and how to prepare themselves for the future disasters. The teachers also learned the idea of disaster education which can be further considered to teach at their schools. In addition, the students received many useful information about how the university's life in Japan is as well as how to apply for the scholarships for their future academic life from the present international students from Thailand.

Group photo of all participants

Reported by Anawat Suppasri (Hazard and Risk Evaluation Research Division)